My preferred option to address the under-recovery of costs from resource consent applications is to...

Increase charge-out rates for consent applications as soon as practical

Tell us why this is your preferred option

Tena koe Fees and Charges Policy Changes Forest and Bird support proposed changes to Environment Canterbury's Fees and Charges Policy to enable recovery of the full costs for the processing of resource consent applications from applicants. It is not appropriate that the ratepaying public subsidize the cost of processing resource consent applications. Forest & Bird supports Option 2, that is increasing charge-out rates for consent applications as soon as practical. We support Option 2 because it is consistent with Environment Canterbury's Revenue and Financing Policy, the user-pays model and reduces cost to general ratepayers. The full costs for resource consent applications needs to be borne by those who initiate or benefit from the activity. Thanks for the opportunity to submit.
